

be awesome
some big GO

A larger version of the 'be awesome GO big' logo, with the word 'big' being the largest and most prominent. It includes the same stylized human figures integrated into the letters.

The PXL Club Ltd in partnership with Hachette UK

‘Bouncebackability’

Here is Matthew Burton to introduce this section:

What is 'bouncebackability'?

It is something you have to work on, develop, practise, exercise and sharpen.

It is often called 'resilience' or 'grit'.

If you work on this, everything else falls into place!

What is 'bouncebackability'?

“We could go on for years and years about this, but if we’re going to boil it down to one thing I think you have to work on, develop, practise, exercise and sharpen, it’s this: bouncebackability. People call it various things – it can be known as ‘resilience’ or ‘grit’ or simply ‘that wasn’t very nice or very good but I’m not going to give up I’m going to try again’.”

Let's understand your expectations vs reality

Nothing comes easy. You will make mistakes along the way.

Make sure you have clear expectations about what can happen in reality.

Expectations:

I'm never going to fall off! This is so easy!

Reality:

I fell off straight away and barely stayed on the bike for more than a few seconds!

So... thinking again about grit and determination...How do you handle bouncing back?

In your workbook, answer the following questions/finish the sentences:

- 1) I have shown 'grit' when...
- 2) I need to show more determination when...
- 3) How do you handle making a mistake? What is your reaction?
- 4) Think of a time when you made a mistake, were you kind to yourself?

When things go wrong...

The easy thing to do would be to say everyone else is wrong, insist you're right, refuse to take any feedback from anyone and keep doing what you're doing. The tough thing to do – and the whole point of bouncebackability – is to accept “I wasn't very good”.

Matthew Burton, 'Go Big'

At high school, you will sometimes make mistakes because that is how you learn. As a Year 7, you are just getting the hang of things.

You might handle a disagreement badly.

1. You might get offended more than you should.
2. You may fall out with people occasionally.
3. You might not score 100% on a test.
4. You might forget to hand your homework in on time.
5. You might not bring the right equipment.

Remember what Matthew Syed said about a growth mindset? Turn these things into learning opportunities

Are you kind to yourself?

- You are going to have days where you feel fed up and times when you are upset.
- You may panic about the future.
- You may feel overwhelmed.

Are you kind to others?

Everyone has worries and sometimes people don't want to talk about them, but we can make a HUGE difference to the lives of other people with KINDNESS.

“Unfortunately, we can't fix everything for everyone, but what we can do, and what we should do every day, hour, minute and second, is be kind.”
Matthew Burton

"Be nice, work hard, bounce
back, and all will be fine.
Go get 'em!"

Matthew Burton

What does 'work hard' and 'be kind' mean?

Fill in the person outline in your workbook with all of the things that you can do to show you are working hard.

Now think about what you can do to be kind.

How many of these things do you do already?

Highlight the ones that you would like to do more of!

Effort and enthusiasm are super important

In life we MUST try.

Teachers won't mind if you get things wrong, but they will mind if you don't put effort in to try in the first place.

Whatever you do, don't give up.

There will be:

- tasks you find hard
- homework you can't do
- a grade you think you don't deserve

The best thing you can do is talk. Talk about life, things and anything you don't understand.

Decide who you want to be.
Develop yourself as a person.
Don't be put off by things.
Achieve your goals.

Here is Gemma to give you some advice on bouncing back. It is something we all need to do.

