

Every morning, when the parents went off to work in the fields, the mother would say to Olga, "Don't forget to stay in the garden. Never go out into the forest, or the witch, Baba Yaga, will get you and eat you and your little brother up."

One day Olga was feeling bored looking after the baby all by herself so she picked him up and walked out of the garden, through the gate and off into a field by the forest.

She laid her brother down in the grass and started picking flowers for her mum.
